An engineer employed at the Holesov Airfield stated that it is to have five heated runways. In each of the three barracks at the field 100 to 150 people are to be quartered. The construction material and equipment for the heating plant (Heizhaus) was ostensibly delivered out of reparations Goods from Wienerneustadt. The heating connection is a pipe with a diameter of about 300 millimeters. The pipe is buried in a trench which is about 2,000 millimeters deep and 1,500 millimeters broad; the trench is so constructed that a person can walk along the pipe.
